HUNDREDS of residents joined ex-servicemen and women to honour the borough's war dead at a

Remembrance Sunday parade and church service on 8 November.

Over 600 people followed the Jewish Lads and Girls Brigade Band from Hackney Town Hall to St John-at-Hackney Church. In attendance was the Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Sade Etti, and Col Morriss, the Queen's representative to the borough. Cllr Etti said: "We must never forget the bravery and sacrifice of those who served during both world wars and conflicts that have taken place since."

DON'T LOSE THE VOTE

THERE are just two weeks to go until Hackney's electoral register is published and the Council is urging residents to make sure they are on it.

It is feared that one in four voters are set to 'drop off' the electoral register and will therefore lose their right to vote.

There are also concerns about the impact this could have on an electoral boundary review, which will be based on the register, as published on 1 December. If the register does not accurately detail the number of electors living in the borough's two parliamentary constituencies, Hackney faces potentially losing an MP.

Under new government rules, people need to register individually. Previously, the 'head of the household' could register all those living in a property. All homes in the borough have been sent a form detailing who is currently registered at that address. Every household must respond, confirming the details are correct, or providing up-to-date information. The Council will then write to either confirm registration or request identification.

Canvassers are continuing to visit homes which have not yet returned the form, encouraging residents to do so. Council staff have also been helping visitors at Hackney Service Centre to register.

Tim Shields, Chief Executive and Returning Officer, said: "It's really important that everyone who is eligible to vote is on our register by 1 December. Not only does this mean residents can take part in electing a new London Mayor next May, but it also secures your credit rating, helping you to access things like passports and bank accounts. It will also help the Boundary Commission to undertake a review, ensuring that the borough is properly represented in parliament."

Business awards

BUSINESSES and residents are invited to nominate their favourite workplace in the Mayor of Hackney Business Awards.

With over 9,000 businesses – from market traders to international creative design and manufacturing agencies – Hackney is home to a vast array of entrepreneurial talent. The awards aim to celebrate those contributing to the life and prosperity of the borough.

The categories are: Best Hackney Business; Best Hackney Entrepreneur; Best Creative Business; Hackney

“Hackney has a terrific reputation as a borough with a vibrant, growing economy and a huge variety of businesses”

Business Charter Award for Best Overall Contribution to the Borough; Best Fairtrade Business; and Outstanding Hackney 100 Employee.

Nominations in these categories must be from Hackney businesses or employees. However, there is also a category chosen entirely by the public called 'People's Choice: Best Place to Eat and Drink'.

The top three shortlisted entries in each category will be invited to attend an awards ceremony in February.

Mayor of Hackney, Jules Pipe, said: "Hackney has a terrific reputation as a borough with a vibrant, growing economy and a huge variety of fantastic businesses, from large international organisations to small local firms that have been serving Hackney people for generations.

"As a Council, we want to nurture our businesses to be as successful as they can be, not only to help grow our local economy, but also to provide vital employment opportunities for residents wanting to forge careers in Hackney and beyond."

Nominations for The People's Choice: Best Place to Eat and Drink are now open and close on 13 December. Voting takes place from 11 to 29 January. The rest of the nominations open on 11 January. The winner of each category will be selected by a panel of leading business figures, chaired by Mayor Pipe.

Mayor of Hackney Business Award Categories

The People's Choice Award: Best Place to Eat and Drink – the winner will be chosen by local people voting for their favourite cafe, bar, pub or restaurant

Best Hackney Business – for a business that is head and shoulders above the rest

Best Hackney Entrepreneur – for the person who best represents the spirit of entrepreneurship in Hackney by creating an innovative new product or service and who inspires others

Best Creative Business – for the business that has demonstrated innovation and creativity

Hackney Business Charter Award for Best Overall Contribution to the Borough – a business that has shown a commitment to employing locally, and invests in the community

Best Fairtrade Business – for the business that uses, manufactures or sells Fairtrade products

Outstanding Hackney 100 Employee – a category just for businesses that have participated in the Hackney 100 programme for young people aged 16 to 18

Hackney's Christmas lights switch on is set to take place on 28 November

A FESTIVE sparkle is set to return to Hackney on 28 November with the annual switch on of the Town Hall Christmas lights from 5.30pm.

Residents are invited to celebrate the beginning of the festive season with sing-a-long carols from Hackney Community Choir before the Christmas lights are turned on.

Doing the honours and flicking the switch, after a customary Christmas-style countdown, will be the Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Sade Etti, who will be joined by characters from Hackney Empire's panto 'Jack and the Beanstalk'.

Photos from last year's lights switch on at Hackney Town Hall

Six Christmas trees, located in each of the borough's town centres, will also all be decked out in different decorations.

Overflowing with more Christmas crackers than Santa's sack, Hackney has a bumper selection of events taking place throughout December in its town centres and markets, such as a free film screening for young people on 22 December at the Council's BL-NK venue in Curtain Road, Shoreditch. Look out for a special

'Make Hackney Sparkle' feature in the next issue of Hackney Today, which will include a rundown of some of the next month's top events.

News in brief

Is Stamford Hill changing?

STAMFORD Hill residents are invited to join the Mayor of Hackney, Jules Pipe, and panellists to discuss how the borough's changing landscape is impacting people in the ward.

The Stamford Hill West ward forum meeting, which takes place on 24 November, at 7pm, in Oak Tree Community Centre, Bethune Road, will play host to a 'Hackney: A Place for Everyone?' debate, organised by ward councillor, Rosemary Sales.

The questions posed to the audience are: How do we make sure the way Hackney has changed over the past 10 years works for everyone? And, how do the changes impact on Stamford Hill?

Panellists include: Yocheved Eiger, Chief Executive of local Bikur Cholim; Samir Jeraj, of Hackney Renters; Emmanuel Opoko, of Let Us Learn campaign; and Angela Phillips, Professor of Journalism at Goldsmiths College.

Light up your life in Dalston

THE Dalston Eastern Curve Garden is set to brighten up this winter with its annual 'Festival of Light.'

It celebrates the importance of light in the darkest months, and includes a programme of free workshops for adults and children to help illuminate the garden. Led by local artist Laura Halliwell, residents are invited to make their own paper-cut silhouettes to be showcased in this year's giant 'greenhouse lantern' (pictured.)

Greenhouse lantern workshops for adults take place on Tuesdays, on 17 and 24 November, and 1 December, from 6pm to 9pm. Giant paper vegetable lantern making workshops for children and families take place on Saturdays, on 21 and 28 November, from 1pm to 5pm. All workshops are free, but donations are welcome.

Have your say on a merger between Hackney and Tower Hamlets colleges

HCC in talks with Tower Hamlets College over proposed merger

A CONSULTATION has been launched over a potential collaboration between two colleges that could affect 15,000 students in Hackney and Tower Hamlets.

The governing bodies of Hackney Community College (HCC) and Tower Hamlets College (THC) published their proposals for a partnership, citing a determination to 'better meet employers' and residents' needs for skills and to be more financially secure in challenging times'.

They are now inviting feedback from staff and students, as well as interested community organisations and employers. A collaboration between the two institutions, both rated

Good by Ofsted, could take the form of a merger, formalised partnership, or the sharing of resources through a federation.

In their proposal, the two colleges cite their locations in neighbouring boroughs and their complementary curriculums as advantages in the potential collaboration that is being explored in the aftermath of government cuts.

The consultation is open until 10 December. The final decision about the colleges' futures will be made by the end of January after which, should a merger be approved, a plan will be developed.

Sporting excellence

Hackney Sports Awards recognise the achievements of the borough's top talent

By Dila Tumer

OVER 600 people cheered on the borough's sporting stars as they were presented with awards for their achievements over the past year.

The 10th annual Hackney Sports Awards celebrated the sporting excellence of local clubs, schools, students, older people, coaches and volunteers, on 4 November, at the Hackney Empire.

Compere for the evening, Kat B, presented awards to many of those who had helped Hackney take seventh place in the London Youth Games – the borough's second highest ranking in the competition for over 30 years.

He was joined by Rebecca Romero MBE, who is the only British athlete to have won Olympic medals in two different sports. Rebecca said: "I love coming to support young people – they are the next generation of Olympians."

The enthusiastic pair gave out a range of sporting awards. Lifetime Achievement went to former teacher Jan Coombs, who has devoted the past 45 years to encouraging hundreds of young people in the borough to play tennis.

Kamil Hajdrych received the Mayor's Award for Services to Sport in Hackney for his hard work

"I love coming to support young people – they are the next generation of Olympians"

in promoting disability sports over the past five years. Thanks to Kamil's efforts, this year Hackney entered all of the disability sports events in the London Youth Games, securing second place in the Para Games London Trophy competition.

He said: "This summarises my work with all the young people I work with. It is dedicated to them and this award gives me great satisfaction."

Other award winners included tennis player

Lauryn John Baptiste who was named Under 25 Sports Person of the Year.

Lauryn is ranked in the top 500 in the world at junior level and this year competed at Wimbledon in the girls' singles event.

Basketball player Wura Ijelu, 17, who was runner-up in the same category, said: "I've been representing Hackney for four years and it's been a joy playing. I'm absolutely chuffed with the award."

Diver Noah Williams was named Under 16 Sports

Person of the Year. He represented Team GB at the Junior European's, finishing third in the springboard synchro and first in the 3m springboard. He also won the gold in the London Youth Games for the fourth year running.

The New Age Games (a Council-run activity programme for over 50s) winner was Maria De La Paz Tissier. In 2009, the 55-year-old was diagnosed with osteoporosis which meant she had trouble walking and found it hard to do basic movements. She discovered the New Age Games programme in 2013 and began running. She has now dropped three dress sizes and ran her first half marathon earlier this year.

Further awards were presented by Mayor of Hackney, Jules Pipe; the Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Sade Etti; Cabinet Member for Health, Social Care and Culture, Cllr Jonathan McShane; and Phil Lane Head of Sport and Legacy for GLL, the Council's leisure partner.

There was also a performance from Marawa's Majorettes, a hula hoop troupe who wowed the audience with their fast-moving, colourful hula moves.

Discovering young talent

DISCOVER Young Hackney turns 10 this year. To celebrate, the award-winning arts and culture festival for young people has put together a programme that is longer, more ambitious and wider-ranging than ever before.

The festival has traditionally been a month-long celebration of culture across Hackney every February, creating opportunities for the young and the curious to explore the arts.

This year, the programme has been extended to run over six months.

Until March, thousands of 13 to 19-year-olds will be able to take part in free or low-cost taster-sessions, workshops or performances from across the arts and culture industries.

Digital platform Hackney Live kicked off celebrations on 2 October, streaming the Gateway 2 Music Live event, in which young musicians competed in a battle of the bands contest.

From a multimedia Poet's Takeover in Dalston Square, organised by Arcola Theatre, to a hydrophonic sound project in the Woodberry Wetlands nature reserve, led by sound artist Tom Fisher, the 2016 festival is designed to encourage young people's creativity in as many different areas as possible, as well as helping them find paths into training and arts careers.

There's the opportunity, for example, to take part in film and writing masterclasses with youth arts company Hackney Shed or, on De Beauvoir Estate, to help develop a professional production with the East London Dance company.

Led by the Council, this year's festival revolves around the themes of arts, health, digital and cultural enterprise.

Highlights include:

In remembrance

Residents paused to reflect on the sacrifices made by the borough's brave servicemen and women in war

By Dila Tumer

RESIDENTS came together to commemorate the borough's war dead at a Remembrance Sunday parade and church service on 8 November.

The Jewish Lads and Girls Brigade Band led the 600-strong parade from the Town Hall to St John-at-Hackney Church. Sounds of the brass section and bass drum boomed around the streets, calling out to all.

Taking part in the parade were representatives from the Royal British Legion, a strong contingent from 3 Military Intelligence Battalion, which holds the Freedom of Hackney;

"We are here to remember all the people who laid down their lives for us to be able to enjoy peace and freedom"

Sea, Army and Air cadets; Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies; Police and Fire service cadets; St John Ambulance and the Red Cross, with members of other local associations.

Sea Cadet Victoria Kwadjosse, 14, said: "It's very nice to be a cadet at Remembrance Sunday and it's great that everyone came to watch."

Hugh Johnson, Scout troop leader, added: "Today is a really important day for the Scouts, we honour it every year. We actually lost three members of our troop in the war, and after the church service today we will stay behind in respect to them."

Others joined the parade as it moved down Mare Street and it was also supported by those who watched from their windows, or who came to stand outside shops and homes to pay their respects.

Civic dignitaries who took part included the Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Sade Etti; the Queen's representative to the borough, Lieutenant Colonel Roderick Morris; and Hackney South MP, Meg Hillier.

On arrival at the church, the Speaker and Col Morris, followed by many others, laid wreaths at the Cenotaph in honour of those who lost their lives during military service.

Shyr-nae Thomas, 18, from St John Ambulance, said: "I am proud to march today as part of my organisation. We shall remember."

The Venerable Lyle Dennen led the service with readings delivered by representatives from both the Jewish and Sikh communities. Jagmohan Singh

The parade then re-formed to make its way back to Hackney Town Hall for the traditional march past and salute taken from the Town Hall steps, followed by the final laying of wreaths at the war memorial.

Cllr Etti said: "I'm honoured to represent Hackney this Remembrance Sunday. We must never forget the bravery and sacrifice of those who served during the world wars and all conflicts that have taken place since."

Col Morriss added: "I am proud to be associated with the many people of all faiths and backgrounds who gathered together in Hackney on Remembrance Sunday to honour those who paid the ultimate sacrifice in the 100 years since the outbreak of the First World War.

"Those that paid that price came from all walks of life and a multitude of countries to defend democracy and their way of life.

"They were not all involved on the front line but fought the bombs and fires, in the factories and at home to protect all that they loved. Those that they left behind will remember them."

Using your local health services over the winter

Don't just go to hospital – if you feel unwell there are many ways to get advice or treatment.

Self-care

Hangover, sore throat, coughs, colds

- The best place for you is at home in the warm - rest and drink plenty of non-alcoholic fluids
- Plan ahead - stock up on plasters, paracetamol, aspirin and indigestion remedies

Your local pharmacy

Diarrhoea, painful cough, headache, other minor ailments, emergency contraceptives

- Your local pharmacist can give you expert, confidential advice and treatment for a range of minor illnesses or injuries – some of them are open every day of the holiday and you do not need an appointment
- Plan ahead - ask your local pharmacy about their opening times, find out online at www.cityandhackneyccg.nhs.uk

Your GP

Ear pain, back ache, vomiting, depression, long-term conditions (e.g. diabetes, asthma)

- Make sure you are registered with a City & Hackney GP. Visit www.nhs.uk to find your local surgery
- Your GP is the first place to go to for illnesses that won't go away
- For urgent appointments call as early as you can, for non-urgent appointments book a week ahead
- You can ask for a same-day telephone consultation with a doctor
- Plan ahead - make sure you have enough prescribed medicines to last you over holiday time

Out of hours GPs

If your GP surgery is closed but you need to speak to a doctor urgently, you can call Hackney's out of hours GP service, CHUHSE, on 020 8185 0545. They will be able to offer you advice or, if required, arrange an urgent appointment. Open 6.30pm – 8am on weekdays and all day on weekends and public holidays.

NHS 111

You feel you need medical help or advice fast but are unsure what to do and don't think it's a 999 emergency

- Call if you don't have a GP, can't access a GP or don't know who else to call
- The service is available 24 hours a day by calling 111
- The service can also help you if you need a repeat prescription filled urgently when your local pharmacy is closed
- You will speak to a trained adviser, supported by nurses and paramedics, who will talk you through your symptoms and advise on what to do next

Homerton Hospital

Accident and Emergency - choking, severe chest pain, bleeding that won't stop, loss of consciousness, struggling to breathe, stroke

- Provides urgent treatment for serious, life-threatening conditions all day, every day
- Get there yourself if you can, but call 999 for an ambulance if someone is too ill to move, can't breathe or you don't have quick access to transport

Emergency dental treatment

You have an urgent dental problem and your usual dental practice is closed

- Call the Emergency Dental Service on 020 3594 0938 to speak to a dentist to get free advice or arrange emergency treatment

For more information on local NHS services, visit www.cityandhackneyccg.nhs.uk

Rosetta Goodman, who turned 100 this year, lived through two World Wars in Hackney; Rosetta aged three and 21 (inset)

'I've seen both World Wars'

By Harriet Worsley

I'VE been living in Hackney for over 100 years dear," says Rosetta Goodman.

Adding: "I was never tempted to move anywhere else. I've seen both World Wars here."

Sitting across a table from this sprightly older lady, sipping tea and talking animatedly at the Brenner Community Centre, in Stamford Hill, it is almost impossible to believe that she could have witnessed such a vast and significant segment of British history. But it is true.

In June, Rosetta celebrated her 100th birthday with a card from the Queen and a tea party with staff and volunteers at the centre, which is run by charity Jewish Care, complete with cake and flowers.

"I was born in 1915, in a maternity home on Southwold Road. So I was only small during the First World War. But I can clearly remember the Second World War being declared. It had a huge impact on my life," she explains.

Rosetta's parents came from a long line of British Jews. She says: "My father moved to Hackney from the East End, where he made shoes. The Jewish community was just emigrating this way, and the community in Hackney was beginning to grow."

Her parents were founder members of the New Synagogue, Egerton Road Shul, when it moved to Hackney from its site in the City in 1915. Rosetta says: "But my mother was Hackney born and bred. Her father, my grandfather, had a factory opposite the old Homerton Hospital.

"To me, it seemed like a

"Hackney seemed like a wonderful place to grow up. Clapton had lots of lovely little shops and restaurants" wonderful place to grow up. Clapton had lots of lovely little shops and restaurants. There was a beautiful department store called Stevens at the Stoke Newington end of Northwold Road. Anything you wanted, you could find there."

Just a toddler when the First World War ended, she was 24 when, on 3 September 1939, Neville

Chamberlain took to the radio to tell the nation that Britain was at war with Germany.

"The streets around here were emptied of young men as they all went off to the front," she remembers. "I had to fill one of the jobs that the men had left and so I went to work as an insurance agent.

"One day I got on a bus. We got as far as Hackney Town Hall when suddenly we heard a doodlebug flying above us. The driver pulled over and shouted for everyone to get down. We climbed under our seats."

The flying bomb landed just around the corner, along the route the bus would have been travelling had the driver not stopped. In the final months of the war, V-1 bombs or 'doodlebugs' were to kill over 6,000 civilians and injure some 20,000 more.

"When the war ended, we had wonderful street parties," Rosetta recalls. Adding: "We still had restrictions, of course. There were times when the shops were lit by candlelight because the electricity had been cut, and there was still rationing, I didn't enjoy the dried eggs!"

The war had also changed her life in other, more profound ways.

"My man was killed while serving," she explains. They weren't yet married, and she never married subsequently.

Instead, she took a flat with her sister in Clapton, where they lived together until she died 20 years ago, and Rosetta moved into the sheltered accommodation where she lives today, visiting the Brenner Community Centre every week to meet friends, listen to talks and have lunch.

"We were happy, my sister and I. Once a year we went on holiday to Bournemouth, it was lovely to go to the sandy beach. And every week we used to dance in Saunders Jewish ballroom. They are my happiest memories," she says.

Collection banks for small electrical items and textiles

THE GREEN GENIE

All your green questions answered

Q: What can I do with an old duvet and pillows? The textile banks say you can't put them in there.

A: Unfortunately duvets and pillows are hard to recycle and have low value compared to other textiles. They can be taken to many charity shops if in a good enough condition for someone else to use. If not, you will have to throw them away as rubbish. Stuff them into a black bag, tie it up and put it out on rubbish collection day, or in a communal refuse bin. If they are filled with down or feathers however, they can be composted. If you have a garden, you could put the feathers in a compost bin with your green waste and food. Compost bins are available at subsidised prices at: www.hackney.getcomposting.com

Hackney's first festival of fixing, The Big Fix, is set to come to Dalston on 21 November – so bring along your gadgets to get them fixed

WHEN it comes to festivals, it can seem like Hackney has it all: celebrations of music, film, dance and food. But a festival for fixing things? As of 21 November, the borough has that too.

Billed as Hackney's first 'festival of fixing', The Big Fix aims to promote the idea of mending items rather than throwing them away.

Organised by Hackney Fixers, the free drop-in event at St Mark's Dalston will feature experts in every aspect of 'fixing', who will run workshops, answer questions and stage demonstrations.

Organiser James Diamond said: "We are going to fill the place with as much fixing activity as we can, and have fun doing it.”

“We are going to fill the place with as much fixing activity as we can”

Workshops include a chair repair surgery with The School of Stuff; a patching clothes class with Broadway Market shop Fabrications; and a bicycle MOT with the Hackney Bike Workshop. Restart Party will also examine – and fix – any malfunctioning gadgets.

The Council's recycling team has signed up to answer questions about waste prevention and re-use. Local company Sugru will demonstrate their mouldable DIY fixing product, developed in the borough and now taking the world by storm.

From making moth deterrents to crafting things from rubbish, there's something for everything and everyone.

Organiser Friederike Hanisch, said: "We're excited to see so many different local repairing initiatives joining us for the Big Fix and looking forward to enthusing many more people with the joys of repair."

Edible park in Mabley Green set to bloom to life with new fruit trees

A NEW 'edible park' at Mabley Green was inaugurated with old-fashioned celebrations such as apple bobbing.

As part of a project led by Mabley Green Users Group, and funded by Sanctuary Housing, scores of fruit trees are set to be planted in the E9 park next year.

neighbourhood partnership manager, Jo Revett, said: "It's very exciting to see that the edible park will soon be planted. This will help to make our neighbourhood greener and to also assist residents in living sustainable and healthy lifestyles."

Children also made bird feeders and seed bombs at events last month supported by environmental charities EcoActive and Groundwork London, as well as Kingsmead Primary School, and volunteering organisation Hackney GoodGym.

Damian Rafferty, chair of Mabley Green User Group, said: "It's wonderful when a whole community is united in something as positive as this."

Cllr Jonathan McShane, Cabinet Member for Health, Social Care and Culture, added: "The edible element of the park will not only provide healthy, grown-on-your-doorstep produce for local people to enjoy but, we hope, will inspire a new generation to fall in love with gardening and growing."

Fringe! Queer Film & Arts Fest

24-29 November, various venues

THE annual Fringe! Queer Film and Arts Fest returns this month, taking in 60 events in six days across some of Hackney's top venues.

This year, the five-year old festival is growing up, with an international programme featuring film, performances and exhibitions from over 20 countries alongside a schedule of talks and workshops. There's 'The Turkish Boat', screening at The Rio on 28 November, for example. The documentary follows the first ever Turkish boat to take part in Amsterdam's famous Gay Pride Canal Parade. Then there's coming-of-age feature-film 'Summer of Sangaile', showing at Hackney Picturehouse on 25 November, which won its Lithuanian director Alanté Kavaitė an Academy Award nomination for Best Foreign Language Film this year. At the Ace Hotel, meanwhile, you can catch the latest work in progress from novelist and playwright La John Joseph with 'The Last Night in the Life of Alexander Geist', performed on 26 November.

Competition

Win tickets to Romeo and Juliet at the Rosemary Branch Theatre

AUSTERITY cuts are hitting young people hard. Their debts are spiralling, jobs are hard to come by and, on the streets, knife crime is on the rise. Sound familiar? Perhaps, but it's not, in fact, a recent report. Rather, it is the setting for a radical reimagining of one of Shakespeare's most famous plays, 'Romeo and Juliet'. KDC theatre company's production, brought to the Rosemary Branch Theatre, catapults the story of the Montague and Capulet family feud into the future. The year is 2020, the place is London, the next election is shortly to take place and the younger generation, dispirited and disenfranchised, are in a fighting mood. Directed by Duncan Moore, this is a production that casts one eye into past, the other into the future and shows just how eternal this story of 'boy meets girl and love meets tragedy' is. For more info and tickets, visit: www.rosemarybranch.com/index.php/programme/69-romeo-juliet

Romeo and Juliet is on at the Rosemary Branch Theatre from 17 to 21 November and Hackney Today has a pair of tickets to give away. PREVIEW*Electric*18 Nov-12 Dec, Rio Cinema, 107 Kingsland High St, E8 2PB

A HACKNEY charity, one of Britain's top up-and-coming producers and an immersive performance in a local landmark – the latest live theatre at the Rio Cinema, called 'Electric', looks set to, well, electrify. The Big House, a Dalston charity working with young people who have been through the care system, has received critical plaudits for previous productions – including 'The Realness' and 'Phoenix'.

Its latest, a promenade production, brings together writer Andy Day, director Maggie Norris and producer Oliver Mackwood. Audiences are given the chance to wander through the Rio's basement, following the production's enigmatic lead, Faith, while unearthing memories and dreams and unlocking secrets in the shadows of the Electric cinema. ### The Divided Laing

18 Nov-12 Dec, Arcola Theatre, 24 Ashwin St, E8 3DL

THE work of a radical psychiatrist seems fertile territory for the UK's leading mental health theatre group. And that's exactly what Stepping Out Theatre have taken on in the world premiere of 'The Divided Laing' at the Arcola Theatre.

Formed in 1997, Stepping Out is open to people who have used mental health services and produces work on a wide range of mental health themes. This latest production, a new comedy by Patrick Marmion, celebrates the 50th anniversary of R D Laing's experimental asylum in Bromley by Bow.

Set in 1970, Laing is mid crisis, his Kingsley Hall asylum has fallen into disrepair, and residents are up in arms. Oh, and his colleague is up on the roof, having taken an acid trip into the future. Can the psychiatrist save his legacy?

The Urswick School gathered donated clothes and other essential supplies to send to the Calais camp

Refugee aid

ASCHOOL minibus has made an epic detour from its usual routes, driving all the way from Hackney to Calais in order to deliver supplies to migrants and refugees.

Throughout September and October, students and staff at The Urswick School gathered donated clothes and other essential supplies to send to the Calais camp known as 'the Jungle'. Sixth form and year nine students volunteered their time to sort through thousands of jumpers, coats, winter hats, toothbrushes and soap.

“I am very proud of all the students at The Urswick School for their donations”

Then, on 19 October, the supplies were loaded into the school minibus, filling it to the rooftop. Four Urswick staff – Richard Aubrey, David Wood, Sue Caldwell and Ruairi O’Gorman – then drove the bus through the Eurotunnel and into the camp.

Richard Aubrey, Ethos and Values Co-ordinator at the school, said: “When we first arrived in Calais we were greeted by queues of migrants, smiling and happy to see us. Only then were we able to see first-hand the desperate situation facing those who are in the camps.

“I am very proud of all the students at The Urswick School for all their donations, and want to thank everyone who contributed in any way.”

Headteacher Richard Brown added: “As well as providing desperately needed help, this harvest campaign has given us a chance to educate our students. They now have a much clearer understanding of what is meant by the term ‘refugee’ and the difference between people seeking refuge and more general immigration.

“The level of support from children and the entire community has been greater than any other charity appeal we have done.”

News in brief

Bolan memorial to be erected

SOME 38 years after the untimely death of one of its most famous students, Northwold Primary School is launching an event and permanent memorial to celebrate the legacy of Marc Bolan.

Bolan, who began his education at the primary school in 1952, went on to found the band T Rex, which outsold both Jimi Hendrix and The Who at the height of their fame. In commemoration, Northwold plan to build a stage and memorial garden in which students can explore their own musical potential and passions.

The Marc Bolan London Music Project is set to be launched with a fundraising event on 6 February, called a ‘Bolantine Bop’. Tickets are sold out, but for more info, e-mail: bolanlondon@hotmail.com

Students interview Malala

INTERVIEWING a Nobel Prize winner and one of the world’s biggest film stars in one evening would be a daunting task for the most seasoned journalist. But Hackney students have done just that.

On 5 November, Year 9 pupils from Skinners’ Academy were selected to take part in a live conversation between Malala Yousafzai and Emma Watson.

Following the ‘pupil’s premier’ of a new documentary about the Pakistani teenage activist’s life, ‘He Named Me Malala’, the Harry Potter star and UN Woman Global Goodwill Ambassador read out questions selected from those previously submitted by students. One came from Skinners’ student Artim Ibisi who asked, ‘What do your younger brothers think about your efforts?’

Malala’s answer proved she had more in common with the average teenager than you might expect. She said: “Well, they are really annoying and they fight with me all the time.”

Free short courses in the construction industry available to all residents

Learn a variety of trade disciplines for free with the Council

THE Council has funded a series of short courses to give residents essential training and skills across a variety of trades.

It is part of a drive to provide opportunities for local people in the construction industry.

The free, industry-approved short courses are specifically designed to help residents take that first step into a chosen trade and career, while also providing transferable skills for life.

Budding construction workers can choose more than one course, depending on availability, allowing them to gain an industry qualification to work on a building site while also learning a specific trade.

The short courses on offer include: Construction Skills Certification Scheme (CSCS); dry lining; scaffolding; brickwork; plant operation and maintenance; tunnelling and underground construction; health and safety; asbestos awareness site management safety scheme; and waste management on site.

The courses are free to Hackney residents and spaces are limited.

For more information on the courses, training, apprenticeship and career advice across all job sectors, contact the Council’s Ways into Work team by e-mailing: waysintowork@hackney.gov.uk; or calling: 020 8356 5700.

Learn more about self care – as part of national Self Care Week – at a free, drop-in event at Hackney Central Library on 19 November

Take care of yourself

A FREE, drop-in event aimed at helping patients to take more control of their own health and wellbeing is set to take place at Hackney Central Library on 19 November.

As part of national Self Care Week (16 to 22 November) the event will allow residents to find out more about how to treat minor ailments, live healthier lifestyles, manage conditions effectively and access a range of local services that can help them to stay healthy without having to rely on a healthcare professional.

Visitors to the event, hosted by the Council and City and Hackney CCG, will also be able to get a free massage and health check, sample healthy food and drink, and take part in guided relaxation sessions.

There will also be information stalls, activities and a whole range of advice and guidance on offer.

Catherine MacAdam, Chair of the CCG's Patient and Public Involvement Committee, said: “We want to help people to make the right decisions about their healthcare. Not only is self care quick and simple for patients, it also helps local urgent care services to be used more effectively.

“By knowing about all of the community services available, including our fantastic local pharmacists, people can become more confident in treating themselves and their families, and that's a good feeling. Self care isn't about neglecting the serious stuff, but taking more control over minor ailments, as well as adopting healthier lifestyles overall.”

The free event will run from 11am to 3pm, at Hackney Central Library, Reading Lane, E8. It is open to everyone and there's no need to book.

Light up a life in St Joseph's Hospice's memorial service

A SERVICE is due to be held at St Joseph's Hospice on 3 December for those who have lost someone close to them to gather in remembrance and light a candle. The 'Light up a Life' service is open to anyone who wishes to attend, regardless of faith, how long ago their loved one died, where they died, or whether or not they received care from St Joseph's. It is intended to bring family, friends and the community together in order to share memories.

It is completely free to dedicate a light on the hospice's Remembrance Tree. To make a dedication in memory of someone, e-mail: supportercare@stjh.org.uk; or call: 020 8525 3200

Dance for charity in December

A HACKNEY charity is set to dance its way to donations at the iconic Southbank Centre.

Headway East London's fifth annual Dance Marathon will take place on 13 December. The fundraising event, organised to support those affected by brain injury, will form part of the Southbank Centre's annual Winter Festival. Dancers will be kept on their toes for up to eight hours by a rota of DJs, dance troupes and musicians. The first acts announced for the night include Swing Patrol and Street Dance XXL. Prizes, massages, snacks and drinks will be available for all participating dancers. The marathon is also the climax of Headway's 'Dance in December' campaign. From 1 December, the charity will be asking businesses, schools, and the wider public to submit a photo or video of their best dance move and donate £5 to charity.

To request a fundraising pack for the Dance Marathon, or for more information about Dance in December, visit: www.headwayeastlondon.org

Hackney Winter Night Shelter reopens its doors for the coldest months

Hackney Winter Night Shelter has reopened for the season

A HACKNEY shelter for the homeless reopened its doors for the winter on 2 November, with staff reporting they expect a higher demand for beds than ever.

The Hackney Winter Night Shelter, which has been operating for over two decades, will see more than 700 volunteers collaborate to provide hot meals and warm beds for homeless people every night of the week until the coldest months draw to a close in March next year.

Operating from churches across Hackney, each one opening its doors on a different night of the week, the shelter also assists guests with any health, legal and accommodation concerns.

Andrew Hudson, Chair of Trustees, said: “Rough sleeping is on the rise in London, so the need for the work of Hackney Winter Night Shelter is higher than ever. We rely on the work and donations of volunteers. If you would like to help out, or to donate, we'd love to hear from you.”

The Combined

Homelessness and Information Network recently reported that the number of new rough sleepers in London has risen by 14 per cent, the fourth highest rise since 2010.

Chocolate and almond torte Serves 8

Preparation time 40 mins
Cooking time 40 mins

This great recipe is courtesy of Fergus at the E5 Bakehouse from his blog 'Hand to Mouth'

Ingredients

- 100g finely ground almonds
- 4 large eggs
- 200g semi-sweet or bittersweet chocolate, chopped
- 150g unsalted butter, cut into small pieces
- 150g caster sugar
- 1/2 tsp vanilla extract
- 1/4 tsp lemon juice
- Icing sugar (to dust cake)
- blueberries and vanilla ice cream to serve (optional).

Method

- Preheat oven to 180°C and line a 20cm springform pan (a cake tin with sides that can be removed from the base) with parchment paper, greasing the paper
- Separate the cold eggs, placing the egg yolks in one bowl and the egg whites in another. Cover with plastic wrap and let them stand until they reach room temperature (about 30min)
- Melt the chopped chocolate and butter in a bowl placed over a saucepan of simmering water. Once melted, remove from the heat
- Meanwhile place the egg yolks and 100g of sugar in the bowl of an electric mixer, fitted with a paddle attachment. Beat the yolks and sugar until pale and thick (about 2min). Beat in the melted chocolate and vanilla extract. Fold in the ground almonds
- In a clean bowl, place the egg whites and lemon juice and whisk until soft peaks form. Gradually sprinkle in the remaining 50g of sugar and whisk. Fold about 1/4 of the whites into the chocolate batter to lighten it. Quickly fold in the rest of the whites and mix only until incorporated
- Pour the batter into the prepared pan and bake for 45-50min, or until a toothpick inserted in the centre of the cake has a few moist crumbs. Remove from oven and cool on a wire rack. Serve cold or at room temperature. Dust with icing sugar.

The E5 Bakehouse, tucked under the arches by London Fields train station, is an artisan bakery and coffee shop. Using organic, locally-sourced ingredients, it serves delicious, daily-baked breads, fresh lunches, homemade cakes and coffee.

Have your say on safeguarding adults in the City & Hackney

THE City and Hackney Safeguarding Adults Board wants to hear from residents about its proposed five year plan.

The board's vision is to ensure that people live a life free from harm in communities that are intolerant of abuse, work together to prevent abuse, and know what to do when it happens.

As a multi-agency partnership of organisations working in the two boroughs, the board has developed a new strategy to help realise this vision. The strategy is underpinned by four principles to help organisations work together with adults who are not able to protect themselves from abuse and neglect because of their care and support needs.

The Mayor and councillors

Councillors are elected by Hackney residents and serve for four years. The last borough elections took place in May 2014.

Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee the Council and its services. They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues that may be of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see. Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – see map below.

MAYOR JULES PIPE

Hackney has an executive Mayor, Jules Pipe, who is not a councillor, but is directly elected by the entire borough. The Mayor is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of Hackney who is elected annually from among the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Sade Etti.

The merchant of Hackney

By Niti Acharya

IN the 1600s Hackney, Shoreditch and Stoke Newington were a cluster of small villages. Hackney was particularly popular with wealthy merchants and employees of the East India Company, the Royal African Company, and the Bank of England who used their wealth to buy large estates in the area that is today's London Borough of Hackney.

They were attracted by the large houses, good schools, and because the City of London was only a short ride away, yet it was still in the countryside. Sir John Cass (1661-1718), a merchant, politician and philanthropist, was one such man. The son of Thomas Cass, a carpenter to the Royal Ordnance, and his wife Hester, John was born in Rosemary Lane, in the City. However, the family moved to Grove Street, in south Hackney, in 1665 to escape the plague.

The family acquired land in the area, and as John Cass rose to an influential position in the commercial world of the City, he was able to enlarge his estate and leave an enduring educational and recreational legacy for Londoners. As a powerful merchant with a keen interest in politics, he also represented the City as its Member of Parliament.

Like many other merchants living in the area, John had trading interests in West Africa and the Caribbean, and was a member of the Royal African Company (RAC) between 1705 and 1708.

The RAC had been granted a charter in 1660 to further England's trading interests in West Africa as the region was of strategic importance both economically and politically. Many other European nations were also establishing footholds in the continent and England did not want to be left behind.

John's membership of both the Company's Court of Assistants and Committee of Correspondence meant that he had direct dealings with both the Company's representatives in the slave forts in West Africa, as well as with its agents in the Caribbean. He retained shares in the Company up until his death.

John used his wealth to greatly expand his Hackney estate to an estimated 150 acres, including areas around Grove Street, east of Well Street; in the north and south of Well Street Common; land in Hackney Marshes; and over the border in Bethnal Green.

In 1710, John set up a school for 50 boys and 40 girls in buildings in the churchyard of St Botolph-without-Aldgate and intended to leave all his property to the independent school. When he suddenly died in 1718, 'neither loving nor beloved in the parish', John had only initialled three pages of his Will. It took 30 years to resolve this issue and resulted in the creation of the Cass Foundation.

The Foundation was set up in 1748 to fulfil his philanthropic desires. Part of John's estate in south Hackney was sold to the Crown in 1843 to create Victoria Park.

The extent of the estate changed little until after the end of the Second World War in 1945. It contained over 1,000 separate leases in 1957 and, by 1964, large tracts on either side of Bentham Road had been taken for the Wyke estate and some sites had been sold near Victoria Park in Redruth and Rutland roads.

Later sales included bombed sites in Danesdale Road, near Hackney Wick, and Hackney Terrace. In 1976, the bulk of John's estate, in Victoria Park and adjoining roads, was leased to a housing association. By 1990, the Cass Foundation retained only a few isolated parcels of land in Hackney, and now the name of Cassland Road is an enduring legacy of the former landowner.

The Foundation continues to provide education support. The Sir John Cass Faculty of Art, Architecture and Design, within London Metropolitan University; the Sir John Cass School of Education, at the University of East London; and the Cass Business School at City University are all named after him, as well as the Sir John Cass Hall, a hall of residence for students, in Well Street, Hackney.

For more information on Sir John Cass, visit Hackney Archives. To find out more about his fellow merchants in the 1600s and 1700s, visit the 'African Threads – Hackney Style' exhibition at Hackney Museum which explores 400 years of textile journeys from Africa to Hackney, until 26 January.

- 1.The roles of Speaker and Deputy Speaker do not attract a SRA but provision of an allowance is covered by separate legislation
2. Councillor Taylor was appointed as Cabinet Member on 1st June 2014 and decided to forgo part of his allowance and received half of a Band 3(A) SRA (£32,881.00) to which he was entitled (£16,440.50).
3. Councillor Bramble received SRA 1(B) for her role as the Deputy Speaker from 26th May until 1st June 2014. On 1st June Cllr Bramble was appointed as Cabinet Member and entitled to SRA 3(A) (£32,881.00).

4. Councillor Desmond received SRA Band 2( C) for his role as Speaker from 26th May until 11th June 2014

5. All Members are only permitted to receive payment for one Special Responsibility Allowance at any one time.

6. Unlike Councillors the Directly Elected Mayor role does not attract a basic or special responsibility allowance. Instead one overarching allowance is paid that takes account of all aspects of the full time role.

Column 1 shows the Member's name; Column 2 shows the basic allowance paid; Column 3 indicates the Special Responsibility Allowance (SRA) paid, which is payable for positions within the Council which hold extra responsibility; Column 4 shows the responsibilities for which Members were paid an allowance; Column 5 shows any travel and subsistence expenses that were paid during the year; Column 6 shows any Childcare/ Dependents' Carers' expenses that were paid during the year; and Column 7 shows the total gross payments made to Members in the Municipal Year May 2014 to May 2015 (or part thereof).

As part of Members' roles and responsibilities they attend formal committees as well as ward meetings and surgeries, and are also appointed to represent the Council on a number of outside bodies. Council appointments to outside bodies can be viewed on the Council's website: <http://mginternet.hackney.gov.uk/mgListOutsideBodies.aspx??bcr=1>

Schedule 2: Independent and Statutory Co-opted Members of the Council for Municipal Year 2014-2015

It's your responsibility to ensure you are registered to vote

If you're not registered, it's not just a vote you'll miss out on. You may find it difficult to:

- Apply for a credit card
- Get a mobile phone contract
- Apply for some benefits
- Open gas and electricity accounts
- Get a passport
- Open savings account
- Access insurance policies

If you haven't already, you will soon receive a letter listing all of the adults we think live at your address. Please check these details and either confirm that they are correct, or complete the form with the updated details and return it.

If you need to register under the Individual Electoral Registration system, we will write to you – you must then register online or return the registration form.

For more information visit
www.gov.uk/register-to-vote

YOUR VOTE MATTERS
